Services Offered

transportation of the deceased, necessary permits, and the cremation process itself.

Members can select options such as urn types, memorial services, and the disposition of ashes during the planning phase.

Additional Memorial Options

Beyond direct cremation, the Cremation Society of MN offers various memorialization choices to honor loved ones. These may include:

- Urns and keepsake jewelry
- Memorial ceremonies and gatherings
- Online tribute pages
- Graveside services and scattering options

Easy Transferability

Membership benefits are often transferable to other family members, providing extended protection and convenience. This feature allows multiple relatives to be covered under one membership, simplifying pre-planning for entire families.

The Cremation Process

Understanding the steps involved in cremation is essential for those considering this option. The Cremation Society of MN follows a standardized, respectful procedure that complies with all state regulations.

Authorization and Documentation

The process begins with obtaining the necessary legal authorizations, including death certificates and cremation permits. Families or legal representatives must provide written consent before cremation can proceed. This ensures compliance with Minnesota state laws.

Transportation and Preparation

Once authorized, the deceased is transported to the society's licensed crematory. Preparation involves verifying identification and placing the individual in a suitable cremation container. No embalming is required for direct cremation unless specifically requested.

Cremation Procedure

The cremation itself involves subjecting the body to high temperatures in a specialized furnace, reducing it to bone fragments. This process usually takes two to three hours. After cooling, the remains are processed into a fine, ash-like consistency and placed into an urn selected by the family or provided by the society.

Return of Remains

The final step is the return of the cremated remains to the family. The society offers various options for delivery, including in-person pickup, mail, or direct transfer to a designated location for memorial services or final disposition.

creamation society of mn: American Learned Men and Women with Czechoslovak Roots Mila Rechcigl, 2020-11-18 Apart from a few articles, no comprehensive study has been written about the learned men and women in America with Czechoslovak roots. That's what this compendium is all about, with the focus on immigration from the period of mass migration and beyond, irrespective whether they were born in their European ancestral homes or whether they have descended from them. Czech and Slovak immigrants, including Bohemian Jews, have brought to the New World their talents, their ingenuity, their technical skills, their scientific knowhow, and their humanistic and spiritual upbringing, reflecting upon the richness of their culture and traditions, developed throughout centuries in their ancestral home. This accounts for the remarkable success and achievements of these settlers in their new home, transcending through their descendants, as this monograph demonstrates. The monograph has been organized into sections by subject areas, i.e., Scholars, Social Scientists, Biological Scientists, and Physical Scientists. Each individual entry is usually accompanied with literature, and additional biographical sources for readers who wish to pursue a deeper study. The selection of individuals has been strictly based on geographical ground, without regards to their native language or ethical background. This was because under the Habsburg rule the official language was German and any nationalistic aspirations were not tolerated. Consequently, it would be virtually impossible to determine their innate ethnic roots or how the respective individuals felt. Doing it in any other way would be a mere guessing, and, thus, less objective.
