Admission Requirements for the Business Major

Admission into the CSULB business major requires meeting specific academic standards to ensure students possess the foundational knowledge necessary for success. These requirements align with the university's commitment to maintaining high educational quality and preparing students for competitive business environments.

University Admission Standards

To be admitted to CSULB, all students must satisfy general university admission criteria, which typically include a minimum high school GPA, completion of required courses, and standardized test scores where applicable. For the business major, competitive applicants often need a strong academic record in math and English.

Impaction and Major Preparation

Due to high demand, the College of Business Administration at CSULB is impacted, meaning students must meet additional criteria to declare the business major. This includes completing prerequisite courses with a minimum grade and maintaining a competitive overall GPA. Students are encouraged to complete the Lower Division Preparation courses early in their academic career.

- Completion of prerequisite courses such as Introduction to Business and College Algebra
- Minimum GPA requirement, often around 2.5 or higher
- Submission of a formal application to the College of Business Administration

General Education and University Requirements

Alongside specific business coursework, CSULB students must fulfill general education (GE) requirements that promote a well-rounded academic foundation. These requirements encompass various disciplines to develop critical thinking, communication, and analytical skills.

Areas of General Education

The GE program at CSULB includes several categories that students must complete before graduation. These categories typically cover English composition, quantitative reasoning, natural sciences, social sciences, arts and humanities, and multicultural studies.

Integration with Business Major

Some GE courses may overlap with business major requirements, allowing students to efficiently progress through their degree plan. For example, a statistics course might satisfy both GE quantitative reasoning and business analytics needs. Proper academic planning is essential to maximize credit efficiency.

Core Business Curriculum

The core curriculum for the CSULB business major is designed to provide students with a comprehensive understanding of fundamental business disciplines. The curriculum covers essential areas necessary for a solid business education and practical application in the professional world.

Foundational Business Courses

Students are required to complete a series of foundational courses that cover key business concepts. These usually include courses in financial accounting, managerial accounting, business law, marketing, management principles, and economics. These courses build the core knowledge base needed for advanced study.

Quantitative and Analytical Skills

Analytical skills are critical in business decision-making; therefore, courses in statistics, business analytics, and quantitative methods are integral parts of the curriculum. These courses teach students how to interpret data and apply quantitative techniques to solve business problems.

- Financial Accounting
- Managerial Accounting
- Business Law and Ethics
- Principles of Marketing
- Organizational Management
- Microeconomics and Macroeconomics
- Business Statistics

Specialization and Elective Options

Beyond the core curriculum, CSULB business majors can choose from various specializations or concentrations that align with their career objectives. These options allow students to gain deeper expertise in specific business areas.

Available Concentrations

The College of Business Administration offers several concentrations such as Finance, Marketing, International Business, Management Information Systems, and Supply Chain Management. Each concentration has a set of required upper-division courses tailored to the subject matter.

Elective Coursework

Students may also select electives outside their concentration to broaden their knowledge or complement their specialization. Electives can include courses in entrepreneurship, business communication, human resources, and other emerging business fields.

Academic Policies and Advising

CSULB enforces academic policies to maintain the quality and integrity of its business program. Understanding these policies and utilizing available advising resources are vital for students to meet the csulb business major requirements efficiently.

Maintaining Good Academic Standing

Students must maintain a minimum GPA to remain in the business program, typically a 2.0 or higher in their major courses. Failure to meet GPA requirements may result in probation or disqualification from the major.

Advising and Support Services

The College of Business Administration provides academic advising to help students plan their coursework, select concentrations, and stay on track for graduation. Additionally, career services and tutoring are available to support student success throughout their academic journey.

csulb business major requirements: Writing Business Francesca Bargiela-Chiappini, Catherine Nickerson, 2014-06-11 Writing Business: Genres, Media and Discourses offers an analysis of the genres and functions of written discourse in the business context, involving a variety of modes of communication. The evolution of new forms of writing is a key focus of this collection and is only partly attributable to the ever increasing application of technology at work. Alongside machine-mediated texts such as electronic mail and computer-generated correspondence, the contextualised analyses of both traditional genres such as facsimiles and direct mailing, and of lesser studied texts such as invitations for bids, contracts, business magazines and ceremonial speeches, reveal a rich complexity in the forms of communication evolved by organisations and the individuals who work within them, in response to the demands of the social, organisational and cultural contexts in which they operate. This rich textual variation is matched by a discussion of a range of methodological approaches to the development of business writing skills, including rhetorical analysis, organisational communication analysis, social constructionism, genre analysis and survey and experimental methods. Using authentic data and benefiting from a fresh, interdisciplinary approach, the volume will be of interest to students and researchers of business communication, Language for Specific Purposes (LSP), English for Specific Purposes (ESP), and sociolinguistics.

csulb business major requirements: Business Modelling Clyde Holsapple, Varghese S. Jacob, H. Raghav Rao, 2012-12-06 Business modelling is a vast arena of research and practice, which is gaining increasing importance in the rapid development of e-commerce, globalization, and in particular, the movement toward global e-business. The ability to utilize advanced computing technology to model, analyse and simulate various aspects of ever-changing businesses has made a significant impact on the way businesses are designed and run these days. With the current global e-business and e-commerce initiatives, it has become important that all businesses carefully validate their business objectives, requirements, and strategies through a careful process of formal business modelling. It is important for effective enterprise decision making to have clear, concise business models that allow the extraction of critical value from business processes and specify the rules to be globally enforced. Particularly in e-business specifications, the need to be unambiguous, accurate, and complete becomes even greater, because there may be no human mediator or agent to rely on in complex or unforeseen situations. Business Modelling: Multidisciplinary Approaches - Economics, Operational, and Information Systems Perspectives, arranged in three parts, brings scholarly perspectives from various disciplines to bear on some of the critical aspects of business modeling. The first part (chapters 1-8) focuses on business modelling fundamentals and starts with a series of economics and operations research perspectives. The second part (chapters 9-19) concentrates on modelling in electronic businesses and focuses on Management Information Systems and Decision Support Systems. The third part (chapters 20-22) centers on multidisciplinary business modelling progress, in particular on the seminal work of Professor Andrew B. Whinston.
